PRESS RELEASE

This is the biggest day in our Business history everyone as we just came off Beta and thank you everyone for checking that out and sharing it where and when you could. Now we said that this was gonna be a big day and if you had been following our facebook page you would be of read that there was gonna be an announcement here today and there was.

SplashTV is now set up as a .ca website and the address for the website is www.splashtv.ca and we could not be any more happier as it was well recieved in the Beta form that we had out over the past week and that made every glad to see that and we are hoping that we can expanded from here and that we can finally have a streaming service being run that people are happy that there is no money changing hands for.

Now the good thing about SplashTV is that it is and will always be free to everyone that sign's up and use's it as we have no intention's of every charging as this was not the dream of the creator of SplashTV to charge people for any money at all. That would also be why you might have seen hashtag's such as #splashfree4me and many other one's out there but the main one we were trying to push was the #splashfree4me one.

Now that we are going into a .ca web address we are hoping that people will find it easier to find us when they go to such things as Google, Bing and what ever other search companies there are out there and there is alot but we have no idea what people use the most be it Google, Bing or Yahoo.

We are looking forward to hearing from you soon.

Yours sincerely,

Splash Media
