

March 8 2022

PRESS RELEASE

On the SplashTV website today you all can watch different movie's regarding woman from around the world as today is International woman's day and we are glad to be a part of it, this year and we hope that you all like the movie selections that we have put up there for you all to enjoy.

Now tomorrow on SplashTV is what we are calling our Milla Jovovich day as she is an actress from the Ukraine and we are planning on running her movie's for the better part of the month and yes we know that she has done some major movie's as her most popular and biggest seem to be the whole Resident Evil series which you will be able to find in her section all month now. We are very proud and happy to be able to bring you all this as we have been trying to figure out away to show our support in one way or another.

Now once again we are running all sort's of movies this month starring different woman from around the world and in different roles like, Horror, Drama, Action and so on. We are also gonna be kinda pushing the hashtag woman in movies ( #splashswomaninmovies ) and everytime you watch a movie starring one of the many woman in movies we ask you to please feel free to use the hash tag as we want to see how well it does.

Now speaking of the whole hashtag thing people are probably wondering what it is about them. Well business's use them so people can find there business easier online. It is also a way that we like to do advertising I guess you could say and that is why you will see us use them in all or alot of our post's be it on the SplashTV page, the Spalsh media page or any other page that we will have here soon.

With all of that said we would also like to let you know that everything is going good with the SplashTV website and we are always updating everything and adding more and more movie's or section's and even channel's like the new channel we will be adding this week. Now we are happy to announce that we are adding a wrestling channel as we are going to be having AEW weekly show's and PPV's on the site.

We are looking forward to hearing from you soon.

Splash Media